CAPITAL REQUIREMENT REGULATION

The capital requirement regulations are divided as follows:

Pillar 1 – Minimum own funds requirements

Pillar 1 capital requirements are regulated by the Capital Requirements Regulation (575/2013/EU) and ensure capital coverage for credit and counterparty risk, market risk and operational risk, which together form the minimum requirement. The capital adequacy ratio, capital base divided with capital requirement, should always be higher than 1.

Pillar 2 – Risk assessment and supervisory review

Credit institutions, pursuant to the Banking and Financing Business Act (2004:297), must identify, measure, govern, report internally and control their risks. In order to meet this requirement, credit institutions must have processes and methods for regularly measuring and maintaining capital and liquidity which – with regard to amount, type and distribution – is sufficient for covering current and future risks. The Pillar 2 requirement is an individual requirement and should cover risks that are not fully captured by the regulation's minimum and buffer requirements.

Pillar 3 – Information requirements

Pillar 3 is the part of the Basel accord that requires credit institutions to publish additional information about their own operations. The objective of these requirements is to ensure that counterparties are better able to assess if they want to enter into a customer, lender or investor relationship with the credit institution.
